NEW HUMANISM
liberating thoughts for reflexive minds www.newhumanism.org
old humanism

emancipation

hyper rationality
polarisations
our social problems are ultimately complex our modern coexistence

connectedness

vulnerability

(sense for) commitment
our modern coexistence

connectedness

vulnerability

(sense for) commitment
making sense of it all

education

science

politics
making sense of it all

education

- cosmopolitanism

- holism
- reflexivity

science

- transdisciplinary
- inclusive

politics

- deliberative
- inclusive
When it comes to give meaning to and decide on what is a personal meaningful life and on how to live together, we are all equal and we have no reference other than each other.

In our practical care for personal and general well-being, we can only make use of one absolute reference value: the possibility of continuous dialogue and deliberation as equal human beings.

All other possible value references (specific ideas, facts, values, statements, people, objects, systems, ...) are relative as reference and need to be incorporated as subject of that deliberation.
responsible anthropocentrism cities as meeting and breeding places our work in 2019

- The New Humanism Project at the United Nations Resilience Frontiers gathering in South Korea, 8 – 12 April 2019

- Bringing spicy ideas to the Research Dialogue at the United Nations Climate Change conference, Bonn

- The New Humanism Project at the Latin America and the Caribbean Climate Week, Salvador de Bahia, Brazil

- Moderating the UNFCCC Knowledge-to-Action day at the UN Climate Change Conference in Madrid